SOCIETY NEWS AND NOTES

Recent Meetings

Josephine Herrald Love spoke at the meeting on April 29. Her mother had recorded family events on tape before her death, and Mrs. Love recalled stories and anecdotes concerning her ancestors. Mrs. Love, a musician and historian, is founder and director of Your Heritage House in Detroit, which is concerned with the cultural instruction of children.

The speaker at the May 20 meeting was Janice Beebe of the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research and the Mayflower Society. She told the history of why the pilgrims, a Separatist group in England, had decided to come to the New World, and of the founding of the Mayflower Society. The Mayflower Society accepts all persons who can trace back to one of the twenty-three ancestors already accepted by the Society, and she enumerated acceptable proofs.

Several members of the Society went to Adrian on June 22 and 23 to attend the Palatines to America Conference. Subjects included how to find records in West Germany and the German Democratic Republic, and locating your ancestors in Pennsylvania.

Reviews by Betty Brandt

The genealogical library of our Society will be moved this fall to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Ann Arbor University Ward, 914 Hill Street. MARTHA E. NUTTING WRITES ABOUT THE LODI ACADEMY

[This letter, written by the daughter of Rufus Nutting, the founder of Lodi Academy, was given to the Michigan Historical Collections, Bentley Historical Library, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, by Dr. Abram Sager Hall, a descendant of Martha E. (Nutting) Wood.]

Lodi Plains
January 3, 1851

My dear Florella:

Do you see that it is actually no longer old "Fifty" --no, his place has been usurped by the new comer "Fifty-one". Here commences the first epistle of Martha, in the new year--and you, my sister, may consider it that you are highly honored in being the first one addressed. Then, too, you must give me all due credit for punctuality, for it was only last night that I received yours and here am I seated to answer it in our west room now commonly known as "Sky Parlor". I don't room here but, nevertheless, often take advantage of the warm fire when I want to study or write in evenings. There are four inmates, Jennie Ingersol and her sister, Mary, Cordelia Dean and Kate Withers. Mary I. and J. have the little southeast room formerly yours and mine. Mary I. is a sweet girl--so still and yet pleasant and lively too, sometimes when it will do to be so. She is about Jennie Ingersole's height but a great deal more fat and rosy--with full cheeks, blue eyes and dark hair. Their other sister, Margaret, boards at Captain Lowrys. The rest of the family Augustus has perhaps told you of. I did miss Emily so much at first. And there I was so disappointed that Mary Foote did not come as we expected at the beginning of the term and now I have no hope of seeing her at all at school. And you too, Darlint, are far away from me now. Oh, if you were only here I'd have some things to tell you, I know. Not that I've any secrets, "a lá school girl" but I want somebody to talk to every day. Willie says he is my confidant. But he aint a girl you know. I did see that little penciled line "all about Christmas and New Year" and will try to the best of my ability to gratify the innocent wish though it would take a pen more fluent than mine by far to tell all that transpired itself on those important days. I find on reference to my Journal (by the way I do wish I could just send a few pages of it wholesale to you but I can't spare it all as I see). I find that on the Sabbath before good little Deacon Jacobus gave out the notice for a donation party at our minister's, Mr. Clark's on the next Wednesday which would be Christmas. Father with Kate thought of some amusements called Tableaux which would be appropriate for the occasion. It is to have a room hung with dark so as to represent the background of a picture and a group of living persons to be arranged so as to represent the group in a picture. All this is to be looked at through a screen of thin material like leno which is put up over the door. By candle light this makes the figures look like wax work almost. One of the scenes was the Flower Girl. In this we needed flowers of course, so Kate and I made most of them of colored cambric fastened to evergreens, and whatever other preparations were needed we attended to. Christmas morning came and found us up bright and early wishing Merry Christmas first to as many as we could. Jennie and I had tied to our doors each a little gift-book we have since found from Charlie Clark (but keep still for we are going to!). As there was to be no school we busied ourselves in different ways. I made cookies to take for my present with - a "heart and hand" tied with blue wrapped in an awful great budget and directed to Mr. Edward Clark. Oh, I must not forget that eight of us seminary girls conspired together and got a good calico dress, and a cherried neck ribbon for Alicia Twamley, Mr. C's adopted daughter. The boys Jake, Willie and Charlie strung nearly a dollar in cents for a present to Mr. C. Another thing I mustn't omit--it is that on the Saturday before I received an invitation to--what do you guess--why nothing less than a wedding at the Rouse's on Wednesday 3 o'clock p.m. So at three Will Rouse and Samantha called on their way from A.A. and took my instrument, the melodianacolicon-organpianoforte as Dwight calls it and Leonard Wood and Melvina took me to the appointed place I steadfastly promising the girls to be back in the evening to the party. There was a large company there--mostly from Ypsilanti, Stony Creek, Saline, besides the relatives of both parties which were neither few nor small in number. At about seven the bridal party entered. It consisted of James Rouse and Miss Allen of A.A., Orlando Eddy, and Martha Rouse--the two latter being the ones for whom the ceremony was performed. Had you guessed before this? Well then supper was not through till after eight so we could not leave with decency. Albert was married the Monday evening before and was present with his bride--a Glover from Kensington and a pretty little ladye. I saw Elizabeth Redner who said that Sophia C. was shortly to be married to that one that waited on her at least such was the report. Sarah Glover from Y. seemed like a pleasant girl. Miss Dewitt and the Misses Martin were present. Perhaps you may have heard of them. It was dark and snowy and blowy coming home and so we tipped over into a snowdrift and made sport enough for ourselves for the rest of the way. It was the first time I ever tried the thing and I liked it well. The girls were in the parlor having just returned when I entered. They said the Tableaux went off well only they had no music between scenes as they expected. They sold the flowers and actually received nearly $4 for them which was given to Alicia. Mr. C. did not have a very large donation besides what the scholars brought. So much for Christmas. It's late. I should have filled the sheet tonight but Jennie and Cordelia would have me practice singing with them preparatory to our next singing school. Did you know we had one? We've a first rate teacher, Mr. Cady. But last night they disputed about what book to use and I am sadly afraid it will make so much trouble as to break up the school. Well as I was remarking my having to sing with them hindered me besides M. Spafford and Sarah have been here studying with Kate and that has hindered me more so that I can't finish tonight much as I would like to show my punctuality. It's striking eleven.

Good night and pleasant dreams.

As for New Years, I have not so much to relate concerning my own self. The scholars, some of them, as Charlie Scott, Frank Hope, and Ed Hunt concocted a sleighride for New Years Eve. Jennie Ingersole and Cordelia Dean received invitations but refused them. Kate had one from one of our Detroit boys, George Lamson. Of course, she did not refuse. But the other girls would not go at all because of their compositions. I did not even have an invitation only think of it! But heard of two I could have had if I had been disposed to go, Frank R. and Charlie Clark. They started at 2 p.m. a great load with three small ones with flags, etc, for Manchester where they had supper etc, but owing to Scott's will and some others of the same sort they did not (return) reach home till about 5 in the morning. It was rather a dull New Year's Day for them. Mary Ingersole and I went over the evening before a little after nine to Mr. Clark's--very still--and fastened to the door latch a bundle for Charlie as New Year's present. It was a needle-book with needles and thread and a card having the words--"For College Use".. Yes and Austin [Wood] spent the evening at our house and we had a sing and he took three of us girls on a ride in his sleigh--we called it the opposition ride for we were home by nine. Saturday afternoon as I was ironing Augustus came in and handed me a bundle which on opening I found to be your pretty present and nice note. It's too late for me to return the compliments but I do wish you a happy year with all my heart if it will do anything toward making it so. That same night on returning from the singing school I found Dwight at home of which I was rejoiced you may be sure for I had not seen him before since early last spring. He did not make much of a visit though as he started this morning, Monday, for Milford. He wanted me to go with him very much indeed, to see Mary who has been sick. But Pa and Ma did not think it best to leave school so long for example's sake. In looking over this letter I am sorry to see so much nonsense in it. The school is very different this term from what it ever was before. So many more wild ones make a deal of noise and trouble and it is not near as pleasant as it was with the old scholars. Theodore seems to be doing pretty well in his studies. His class in Virgil recites to me.

Your ever affectionate

Sister, Mattie

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF LODI, WASHTENAW COUNTY, MICHIGAN, 1836-1857

Abstracted by N. H. Krohn

The one, worn, book containing the sessional records of the First Presbyterian Church of Lodi is found in the Michigan Historical Collections, Bentley Historical Library, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Rev. Mr. Lee Cotter of the First Presbyterian Church of Saline, Michigan has kindly given permission to abstract these records.

In February 1836 a committee composed of the Rev. Mr. I. M. Wead and the Rev. Mr. Beach organized the First Presbyterian Church of Lodi with forty-two members from the Presbyterian Church of Saline. The Rev. Mr. John G. Kanouse, formerly of the Saline church, served as moderator until he returned in April 1839 to the Saline church. During his pastorate a building was erected in the northeast corner of Section 26. This was sold in 1854 to the Independent Church of Lodi, a Congregational church. Many members were dismissed at this time to this new church. Finally by 27 December 1857 all of the members had been dismissed, many returning to the Presbyterian Church of Saline. The Independent Church of Lodi united in 1874 with this same church.

There are no trustees' records to reveal the financial affairs of this church. A series of pastors, some who came only once or twice, indicates the uncertain existence of this church. Although the membership grew in the 1840s with the influx of immigrants, many from New York State, the schism in the Presbyterian Church and later the matter of abolition influenced the decline of the Lodi church.

Ministers who visited or served as moderators at this church are listed below with the date on which they first appear in the records.

RANDOLPH DAVIS OF LODI TOWNSHIP

Compiled by Margaret Allen Brann

Randolph Davis was born 29 August 1798 in Mercer County, New Jersey near Princeton. Nothing is known of his parents at this time. At an early age the family moved to Seneca County, New York where he passed his youth and was educated. He married Mary "Polly" Geddes on 10 October 1821, the daughter of John and Prudence (Smalley) Geddes.

Randolph Davis came to Michigan in 1831 on horseback from New York, along with John Geddes. He purchased 160 acres of land in Lodi Township, Washtenaw County, at Government rates of $1.25 an acre, a yoke of oxen, and a cow. He returned to New York and brought his family to Lodi in 1832, again, along with the John Geddes family, and cut timbers and built a log house. He later built another house. "Thus he started in life in the county, but by honesty, integrity and goaheaditiveness, he became the possessor of considerable property."[1] He died 10 January 1872 at the advanced age of 74 years. Polly Geddes Davis lived on in the old homestead, consisting of 240 acres, until her death 31 July 1884. One of her grandsons, Gilbert Clayton Allen, a boy of 15 at the time, noted in his diary, "Grandma died today...."

Nine children were born to Randolph and Polly Davis: John G., Henry, George, Martin, Mary Jane, Charles Melvin, Randolph, David, and Hannah. The Davis and Allen children of Lodi made up the church choir. Randolph Davis, Sr. drilled the children in practice every Sunday morning.

i. John G. Davis b. 30 July 1822, lived at home and kept house for his mother. He eventually married at about age 60.
ii. Henry Davis b. 26 August 1824 and d. 31 May 1857 at age 32.
iii. George Davis b. 23 January 1827, m. 26 Dec. 1852 Electa Bostinich. They had four sons, among whom were Victor and Art.
iv. Martin L. Davis b. 1 February 1829, m. 21 August 1856 Mary E. Smalley, his cousin.
v. Mary Jane Davis b. 26 October 1831 m. Giles S. Waters. When Mary Jane was about 97 years old, she was caught in a wind storm and thrown against the outside cellar door, breaking her hip. She managed to crawl into the house. Five children were born: David, Alice, Amelia, Bert, and Melvin.
vi. Charles Melvin Davis b. 18 March 1834 in Lodi Township, Washtenaw County, Michigan, m. 6 April 1862 Minerva Lorinda Geddes, daughter of Henry Geddes and Mrs. Maria Margaret (Isabell) Jones. They were only recently married when the Civil War broke out so he hired someone for $30.00 to take his place in the Army. Charles Davis loved music. He had a lovely tenor voice and sang in the church choir and played the violin for dances. He loved to draw and always had a large 5¢ tablet in his rolled-top walnut desk. He drew horses and danced the jig to amuse his grandchildren. He even danced an occasional jig in his 80s. He always carried peppermints in his pocket for his grandchildren. His grandaughter, Marjorie (Mapes) Atkins

vii. Randolph Davis b. 16 December 1836, m. Phoebe Allen of Lodi, sister to Lewis S. Allen. On 11 August 1862 at age 26 he enlisted in Company H, Michigan 20th Infantry, for a duration of three years. He was mustered out at DeLaney House, Washington, D.C. on 30 May 1865.[2] They had two sons, Will and Tad.

viii. David Davis b. 19 April 1839, d. 17 May 1853.

ix. Hannah A. Davis b. 2 September 1841, m. in the Congregational Church of Ann Arbor 19 August 1866 Lewis Seymour Allen. They had one child, Gilbert Clayton Allen. Hannah (Davis) Allen died 2 July 1916 at South Lyon, Oakland County, Michigan. Lewis S. Allen died 19 December 1922 at South Lyon.

Gilbert C. Allen was born 30 April 1869 in Lodi Township. When he was a young man, he moved to Ionia and was employed by the bank. He married 19 May 1891 Mary Lou Welton, daughter of William and Catherine (Tobin) Welton of Ionia. Their only child, Lewis William Allen, was born in Ionia 25 March 1897. Lewis married 17 November 1931 Laura Agnes Rasch of Lansing. Three daughters were born to this union: Mary Agnes, born 8 December 1932; Bernadette Therese, born 30 January 1934; Margaret Anne, born 14 April 1936, compiler of this history.

Margaret Brann, compiler, will be pleased to offer more detail if contacted. Address: 890 Ravine Terrace Court, Rochester, Michigan 48063.

THE NEXT BEST THING

By Connie Olson

Probably we have all at some time wanted to attend a genealogical conference or meeting in another locality but, because of time and/or financial considerations, felt it was impossible. Such a situation doesn't have to be a complete loss, however, because often you can obtain cassette tapes of the proceedings. It is becoming an increasingly common practice to have all the talks at a large conference taped by a commercial taping organization and then to offer the tapes for sale. Also some of the nationally known genealogical societies have taped lectures and these tapes may be available for loan or purchase to either members of the general public.

In addition to the time and cost factors mentioned earlier, using tapes has other advantages. You can give your full attention to what the speaker is saying without having to take notes and you can replay any section which you want to review. If efficient time management is important, you can even listen to the tapes as you drive to and from work or polish the silver. Also, at some of the large meetings there are often concurrent sessions from which you must choose only one, but by purchasing tapes you can hear as many speakers as you wish.

There is the risk that the quality of the tape - or the speaker - will not be top notch but generally it is quite good. Of course there are some things you can't get from a tape such as the benefit of any visual aids or handouts that may have been used in conjunction with the talk and sometimes a question and answer session is not recorded. The biggest disadvantage may be the absence of interaction with other conference participants, but if you can't be there in person tapes may provide the next best thing to being there.

Listed below are some of the sources for tapes and the meetings which are available. More detailed information is available from Connie Olson or directly from the companies.

THE WOODS OF LODI TOWNSHIP

by Norman Asa Wood

The first pioneer of this family was Abijah, who came to Michigan from Ovid, New York, in 1834, with Darius, his oldest son, and their families. Each settled on an 80-acre tract of land in Section 35, Lodi Township. Later they bought adjoining land and lived in log houses. At first Darius built a frame house on the east 80 acres of this Section, which is still in use (1941), and Abijah built a frame house later known as the Egbert Harper home, also still in use. Abijah died in 1863 and is buried in the Lodi Cemetery. Darius moved to Ann Arbor in 1865, and in 1868 married the widow of William S. Maynard, who owned the home on Main Street, now the Elk Club House. He also is buried in the Lodi Cemetery. Abijah's other children were Selleck, Paulina, Austin, Eliza, Ann, Sarah, and Daniel Leonard.

Selleck Wood lived on his father's farm for some years, then moved to Ann Arbor and owned a lumber yard near the Michigan Central depot. After his death this was operated by his son, Frank Wood, who married Miss Mary Allen, the daughter of John Allen, one of the founders of Ann Arbor in 1824. The members of this family are all buried in the Ann Arbor Cemetery.

Daniel Leonard Wood Went to the Nutting Academy in 1849-50, and in 1856 married Mattie Nutting, moved to Ann Arbor and owned a grocery store until 1865, when he moved to Indianapolis, Indiana, where he is buried.

Darius had a son, Beecher Wood, who married and owned a farm near his father's in Lodi; later he sold his farm and moved to Ann Arbor. He had only one child, Ashley Wood. Darius also had three daughters, Malvina, Samantha, and Fanny, who also attended the Nutting Academy.

The second pioneer family of "Woods", Abijah's brother, came from Penn Yan, New York, in 1836. Ira and wife Maria, with five boys, came to Buffalo on the Erie Canal, by sailboat to Detroit (7 days), and from Detroit to his farm of 400 acres, 1 mile west of Lodi Cemetery. They had an ox team and wagon full of goods and a span of horses with a double carriage. They were two days on the road from Detroit to their home in Lodi. Their story-and-a-half frame house was the first frame house in Lodi Township, and was sided with walnut siding. This house was a mile and a half north of Abijah Wood's home, near a spring brook that issued from the foot of a steep hill. This brook is cold all summer and never freezes in winter. Forty acres of this land had been cut over and the rest was heavily wooded with hickory, oak, walnut, poplar, basswood, and white ash. In 1841 a good sized frame house was built on the south side of a road one mile west of the Lodi Cemetery. This old home had 3 fireplaces and a brick oven in the kitchen. After many years these were all torn down and replaced with stoves. On the southwest corner of this same road a Congregational church was built in 1836-37. The church was organized by the Rev. I. M. Weed in 1834, and its first pastor was the Rev. John Kanouse. The cemetery was, and is yet, the only cemetery in Lodi Township; it is well kept and used by the residents of the Township. On the southeast corner there was built, in 1845, a three-story large frame house, the home of Dr. Rufus Nutting and the residence of the young ladies attending the Academy, which was erected by Dr. Nutting with the help of the young men who attended the Academy. The lady students had rooms in the Nutting home, and in the attic there was a large class room for them. The local students lived in their homes and the others lived with the farmers round about. "The Woods" had a good district school near the home for the beginning, and later the advantages of the Nutting Academy where several of them finished their education. Later some of the younger generation attended the University of Michigan.

As the Wood boys became of age and married they were given some of the original farm and also bought land adjoining, built homes and formed a colony later known far and wide as "The Woods" of Lodi, on account of the Spanish Merino sheep that were first imported to the state by Jesup and George Wood in 1845. The beginning of a fine wool industry that was to spread over most of southern Michigan was in 1875, when the sons of the above twin brothers, F.C. and A.A. Wood, sent to Vermont and bought several fine sheep of the best breeders, paying $2,000 for one noted stock ram, Sheldon No. 48, and $1,000 for another. The Sheldon ram was so good that his stock became noted not only in Michigan but over 50 were taken to Australia by George S. Wood, who sold them for good prices. "For several years the breeders of this vicinity (Saline) have had the credit of showing the finest aggregation of Merinos to be found in Michigan, and Tuesday's shearing justified them in still holding the belt, and we doubt if a better lot could be picked up in any one locality in this country; the average of 45 shorn, 22 ewes and 23 rams, was 22½ lbs. A record which we venture to say no other shearing in Michigan will equal." "The Woods were out in full force. There were Jesup S., George S., Fred C., Arthur A., Ira E., Norman A., and George Jr., all enthusiastic and successful breeders too." *

Ira Wood had five sons, all born in Danbury, Conn., - Jere, Lyman, George and Jesup (twins), and Austin. After living many years on their farms, all of these except Jere moved to Ann Arbor, where all of them died except Jere and George, who bought another farm in Lodi Plains after a few years in Ann Arbor. The rest are buried in Lodi Cemetery, where Ira, Jere, and Jesup were also interred. At the present time only one of the descendants of these pioneers owns a residence in Lodi Township. Dr. Abram Sager Hall, Michigan alumnus, and a grandson of Darius Wood, is still living (aged 85 in 1941), and owns a farm on the Saline Road 1 mile east of the old Wood Colony.

The writer was born on the old farm in 1857, and went to the little Red School House near by for several years, then to the Saline High School for 6 years, walking one fall 3½ miles and driving the rest of the time, worked on the farm until March, 1895. Then he was hired by Dean C. Worcester, Curator of the University of Michigan Museum, as Taxidermist, after many years was made Curator of Birds, was retired in 1932 and given the Honorary Degree of "Master of Science" in 1937. He was requested to hold his office in the new Museum's Building and to continue his life work on "A History of Michign Birds," which is now finished (1941), and will soon be published.
